

The Plastic Extents of Some Modern Art Trends and Its impact on Fashion Design for Girls Preferences

Dr Naglaa Taema
High Institute of Textile Engineering and Technology
Dr Ghada Shaker
Faculty of Specific Education, Benha University

Abstract:

The importance of teenagers appears in the new interests and the psychological and physiological needs and motives. Clothes of this period represent an important factor in satisfying the emotional and social needs. The aim of this work is to describe the properties of some modern artistic schools (Romantic, Future, and Surrealisms), the teenagers' properties, Identify the compatibility of Design items, using the principles of some modern school paints as a fashion design source, and comparing the fashion designs inspired from the selected schools. The analytical and experimental techniques are followed to achieve the assumptions. The results show that the designs are generally accepted by both specialists and teenagers. The properties of the artistic schools are achieved in the designs of the romantic, Surrealism, and then Future school from the specialists' point of view respectively. The highest value of satisfaction is achieved by the designs of the Surrealism school. It is recommended to study the relation of the different arts and fashion design to widen the artistic vision, the scientific and psychological principles are also recommended to be considered in teenagers fashion design.